

American Council of Learned Societies
Conference of Executive Officers
“Familiarization” Trip Overview
Overall Meeting Specifications: Spring and Fall Meetings

The ACLS Conference of Executive Officers (CEO) meetings are an excellent opportunity to showcase a city’s facilities and attractions for an important group of meeting planners. The CEO fall meeting, held the last week of October or first or second weekend of November each year for 3 days (Thursday evening - Sunday) is a combination of city-hosted “familiarization trip” and business meeting for the CEO members. It meets in a convention city of interest to the members for their own organizations’ future annual meetings and regional conferences.

The ACLS Conference of Executive Officers (CEO) is composed of the 75 executive directors of national professional organizations in the humanities and social sciences that constitute the American Council of Learned Societies. In general, the purpose of CEO meetings is to discuss questions of particular interest to individuals responsible for managing scholarly societies, and issues relevant to the scholarly community as a whole. Sites and planning for the societies’ annual meetings are always key topics.

For the fall business meeting and familiarization trip, these are the arrangements that have worked well for us in recent years: The Convention and Visitors Bureau of the host city coordinates hotel agreements, air and ground transportation, and all meal and site arrangements. Meeting agendas and programs are planned by the CEO Executive Committee with support from ACLS staff. The group will also want to visit and spend some time at one of the institutions of higher education in the host city. The host hotel(s) provides complimentary rooms for a group of 50-60 (50 meeting planners, 6 ACLS staff). Airlines or the city’s convention bureau provide complimentary air tickets or a subsidy for meeting planners and staff.

The American Council of Learned Societies is a private, non-profit federation of national scholarly organizations. The purpose of the Council, as set forth in its constitution, is “the advancement of humanistic studies in all fields of learning, and the maintenance and strengthening of relations among national societies devoted to such studies.” There are currently 75 learned societies, which represent over 300,000 scholars and teachers throughout the United States and Canada.

If you are interested in hosting an ACLS CEO meeting in an upcoming year, please contact Sandra Bradley, director of member relations, at 212-697-1505 ext. 123, or sbradley@acsls.org.

Please view the ACLS website (www.acsls.org) and “Information for Convention & Visitors Bureaus” (www.acsls.org/Member-Societies/Information-for-CVBs) to learn more about our member societies and their meetings.
