The American Council of Learned Societies (ACLS) collaborates with Robert H. N. Ho to support study of Buddhist culture worldwide. In collaboration with ACPS, ACLS offers opportunities to support research on Buddhist studies. These opportunities are supported by the American Council of Learned Societies and are open to researchers from any country.

Dissertation Fellowships
These fellowships support doctoral research on Buddhist culture, providing opportunities to conduct research on Buddhist culture worldwide.

Postdoctoral Fellowships
These fellowships support postdoctoral research on Buddhist culture, providing opportunities to conduct research on Buddhist culture worldwide.

Research Fellowships
These fellowships support research on Buddhist culture, providing opportunities to conduct research on Buddhist culture worldwide.

Critical Editions and Scholarly Translations
These fellowships support research on Buddhist culture, providing opportunities to conduct research on Buddhist culture worldwide.

New Professorships
These fellowships support research on Buddhist culture, providing opportunities to conduct research on Buddhist culture worldwide.

To learn more about these opportunities, visit www.acls.org/programs/buddhist-studies/.

For more information, contact BuddhistStudies@acls.org.