Elections to the Executive Committee of the CAO

The Executive Committee is composed of seven members of the CAO. Members of the Executive Committee serve terms of three years, beginning and ending at the semi-annual meeting each spring. Members elected in spring 2013 will serve until spring 2016. Each year a nominating committee is appointed, composed of one outgoing member of the Executive Committee, serving as chair, and two other members of the CAO.

The members of the 2013 Nominating Committee are
Amy Newhall, chair, Middle East Studies Association
David Barclay, German Studies Association
Adam Blistein, American Philological Association

The Nominating Committee proposes the following slate for three openings on the Executive Committee:

1. Tim Lloyd, American Folklore Society
2. Milagros Pererya-Rojas, Latin American Studies Association
3. Nancy Kidd, National Communication Association

Other nominations may be made from the floor.

The seven current members of the Executive Committee and their terms are:

Jack Fitzmier, American Academy of Religion, Chair (2014)
Victoria Long, Society for Music Theory (2014)
Amy Newhall, Middle East Studies Association of North America (2013)
Michael Paschal, Association of Asian Studies (2013) absent
Pauline Saliga, Society of Architectural Historians (2013) absent
Kent Williamson, College Forum of the National Council of Teachers of English (2015)

The membership categories (based on individual membership) used for determining service on the Executive Committee are as follows: S (small) = < 999; M (medium) = 1,000–2,499; M/L (medium large) = 2,500-5,999; L (large) = > 6,000.
Heidi McGregor

Vice President, Marketing & Communications

Heidi McGregor is vice president, marketing & communications for ITHAKA. She oversees all strategic positioning, brand management, marketing, and communications for ITHAKA and its services, JSTOR, Portico, and Ithaka S+R.

Previously, Heidi led strategic planning for JSTOR, fostering ideas for how the JSTOR platform and content could be expanded to further the organization’s mission. She joined JSTOR in 1998 and for six years served as director of publisher relations. During this time, Heidi led JSTOR’s efforts for adding 8 new archival journal collections, negotiating and signing agreements for 350 journals, and bringing 160 new publisher participants to the organization. She also had principle oversight for more than $4M in grant-funded projects.

Prior to joining JSTOR, Heidi worked at Simon & Schuster for four years. Heidi has been in publishing and scholarly communications for nearly 20 years. She is a frequent public speaker and has served as a board member of the Society for Scholarly Publishing and on advisory committees for Project AMEEL based at Yale University Library and Bio One.

Heidi has a bachelor of arts in philosophy and political science from Lafayette College and a graduate certificate in media management from the New School University.
KATHLEEN FITZPATRICK

Kathleen Fitzpatrick is Director of Scholarly Communication at the Modern Language Association, and is on leave from a position as Professor of Media Studies at Pomona College, in Claremont, California. She is the author of Planned Obsolescence: Publishing, Technology, and the Future of the Academy, which was published by NYU Press in November 2011; Planned Obsolescence was released in draft form for open peer review in fall 2009. She is also the author of The Anxiety of Obsolescence: The American Novel in the Age of Television, published in 2006 by Vanderbilt University Press (and of course available in print), and she is co-founder of the digital scholarly network MediaCommons. She has published articles and notes in journals including the Journal of Electronic Publishing, PMLA, Contemporary Literature, and Cinema Journal.
Mark Levine

Mark Levine is the Chief Executive Officer and has practiced in the insurance industry for over 30 years. He is an active participant in the Risk and Insurance Management Society and Professional Insurance Agents of America.

Mark is a risk management consultant and specializes in the Property & Casualty and Executive Protection areas of insurance.

Other areas he has an extensive background in areas including Employee Benefits (401K), Life, Health, and Long Term Care.
Summary of Legal Services for ACLS Members

The American Council of Learned Societies has negotiated a “preferred client” rate with the non-profit lawyers of the law firm Whiteford Taylor & Preston (WTP) on behalf of its member associations. ACLS members may engage WTP for advice and representation at a sharply reduced rate of $290 an hour.

Time period: This rate is applicable through the end of 2014.

Conditions:

- The association must be a member in good standing of ACLS.
- WTP will perform a conflict check on an association-by-association basis to be sure that it may freely represent the member association. (At this time, neither ACLS nor WTP is aware of any potential conflicts, so it is likely that this requirement will be easily satisfied.)
- The member association must sign a retainer letter formally engaging WTP’s services. A copy of the standard retainer is available from WTP upon request.
- The preferred client rate applies to most legal issues faced by non-profit organizations, such as counsel and advice in the usual course of running the organization. However, litigation and extraordinary or special legal services are not subject to this rate. Should the member association wish to use WTP’s services for such matters, the applicable rate will be mutually agreed upon as the circumstance arises.

If you are interested or have further questions, please contact Stephen M. Schaefer, Esq., at 202-659-6765 or sschaefer@wtplaw.com.

Representative Services for Associations

WTP’s non-profit attorneys represent numerous associations and membership organizations, as well as other charitable and nonprofit organizations. Areas of representation that fall within the client preferred rate include:

- Contract review, including vendor, contractor, meeting and hotel contracts
- Corporate governance
- Employment issues, including contracts and compensation and benefits planning
- Fiduciary responsibilities of trustees, directors and officers
- Intermediate sanctions
- Joint ventures
- Managing chapters and affiliated organizations
- Membership solicitations and fundraising
- Oversight of lobbying efforts
- Protection and licensing of intellectual property
- Real estate acquisitions, dispositions and leasing
- Tax-exempt status (federal and state)
- Unrelated business income tax

About Whiteford Taylor & Preston

Founded in 1933, Whiteford, Taylor & Preston has grown to over 150 attorneys in the District of Columbia, Maryland, Virginia, and Delaware.

Our clients are businesses located around the globe, across the nation, and next door. In addition to legal advice, we bring to the table our wide experience in a range of industries, including nonprofits, higher education, technology, food & drug, retirement communities, international trade, insurance, community associations, construction, real estate and land use, government contracting, securities, manufacturing, and life sciences.

What sets us apart? The largest patent and intellectual property practice in Maryland, for instance; top rankings in U.S. and foreign directories that rate lawyers; an intense and well-known business reorganization and bankruptcy practice; a national litigation practice; and a long-standing focus on family-owned companies, start-ups, and closely held companies of all kinds.

For more information about the firm, please visit www.wtplaw.com.

Nonprofit Organizations and Associations Practice

Our nonprofit attorneys represent nonprofit organizations and associations in a wide variety of matters relating to their special tax status and operations. The group’s lawyers have backgrounds in tax, corporate, transactions, real estate, employment, intellectual property, litigation and other areas of law pertinent to nonprofit organizations and associations. Quality representation in these areas is especially important in today's environment of increased federal and state scrutiny of nonprofits, and requires in-depth knowledge and understanding of many complex laws, rules and regulations.
